

OCEAN VICTORY

A victorious achievement

The 75.75 m (248'6") Ocean Victory broke a number of records at the time of her launch. She was the largest Feadship to date in terms of volume, with a beam of 13.60 m (44'7"), and the first custom Feadship to be completed by the Makkum yard of Koninklijke De Vries Scheepsbouw. Incredibly for a superyacht of such technological and aesthetic sophistication, Ocean Victory was finished and outfitted in a record time of just fifteen months between hull construction and launch. And she is also the first Feadship to have her own hairdressing salon.

Ocean Victory features a stunning interior from the boards of French interior designer Alberto Pinto, which accommodates twelve people in the highest degree of comfort and style. While many different themes are brilliantly explored throughout the yacht, the overall style is nautical with a layout that is conducive to family life. A summer house atmosphere ensures the huge spaces retain exactly the right sense of warmth. Meanwhile, a wide palette of colours generates a quiet ambience and is easy on the eye.

Ocean Victory sets new standards in terms of onboard entertainment and relaxation, with a cinema, a full Crestron system in all luxury spaces (including the outside decks), a health club with gym and dedicated outside platform, sauna, hammam/steam and massage rooms, a giant swimming platform and a massive lazarette housing three tenders and three water scooters.

Sit down and relax

The first of three saloons onboard Ocean Victory, the main lounge [22] typifies the comfortable ambiance and natural atmosphere that is the yacht's hallmark. Huge windows at the level of the settees offer panoramic vistas while the ribbed ceilings are gloss lacquered to look like marble. Leather, cotton, varnished wood and other simple materials are combined with a host of sophisticated details such as the Oriental embroidery on the cushions. A similar theme continues in the outdoor aft deck area [21], with a variation of natural colours and materials. The subtle application of ribbons on the cushions adds another characteristic touch.

Natural dining

Located forward of the main lounge in an open-plan arrangement is this magnificent dining room [23]. Diners enjoy a sophisticated ambience within a natural mood created by a decor of butterfly wings, traditionally made in Brazil. The lovely silk and wool geometrical carpet was specially designed by Alberto Pinto. Immense pieces of artwork on the forward wall and the sides of the zone between the lounge and dining room also create a distinctive feel.

Forward thinking

The magnificent owner's stateroom [19] displays remarkable floor-to-ceiling joinery and incorporates a bedroom, two bathrooms [17-18], two dressing rooms [15-16] and a separate office [14]. Here the wood is tinted sycamore veneer and plane tree for the walls and the furniture, with lots of details making the decor even more special in the cornices, buttons and cymae mouldings. A unique geometric embroidery has been designed for the pillows and covering of a bed that enjoys resplendent views through the sloping wheelhouse-like windows.

Rooms with views

The six guest staterooms [26-28-30-32-34-36] are located in a prime real estate area on the main deck, with excellent views through the large windows. Each guestroom has an ambiance of its own within a similar chromatic field of natural colours, and various combinations of zebrano wood or rosewood with woven sycamore veneer. Each suite has a very large bathroom [27-29-31-33-35-37] with a bath, giant shower and separate toilet surrounded by rare 'picture stone' marble. The sensational windows above the baths offer an unrivalled seascape while taking a soak.

See the world

The bridge deck lounge [5] is comparatively small inside so as to optimise the space outside. All the windows are full length and with the double doors open to the aft deck [4] (95 percent of which is under cover) this is a spectacular spot to wile away a sunny afternoon and a very popular place for al fresco dining. The two large rotating coffee tables are finished in a glossy cracked ivory lacquer and nestle between oversized 'corbeille' sofas in a semicircular arrangement. Note the lovely linen curtains in two soft hues of light blue and ivory.

Sun and shade

Ocean Victory's owners dedicated a great deal of time and effort to tailoring the functionality and aesthetics of the yacht to their personal tastes. Bespoke highlights include the beautiful high gloss teak and teak windscreen on the sun deck [1], which is a fabulous place for sunbathing and casual dining under the shade [2]. The contraflow swimming pool [3] on this deck warms up from 20 degrees to 38 degrees in just half an hour.

Mind, body and soul

Non-traditional interior delights are taken very seriously onboard Ocean Victory. While many modern superyachts have a gymnasium [44], few have a fold-out balcony so exercisers can watch the world go by while training. The fabulous steam room [40] showcases hammered and polished grey stone in a pure geometrical design. And the phenomenal twelve-person movie theatre [45] features giant custom sofa beds with leather details, set against a backdrop of natural canvas walls nailed with natural leather buttons.
